WASHINGTON, OCTOBER 17, 1879.

TO-MORROW'S PAPER.

An Eight-Page "National Republican."

The encroachment upon our columns by our advertising patrons, welcome as it is, and interesting to our citizens generally as an indication of revived and renewed business prosperity in this community, compels us to issue an eight-page NATIONAL REPUBLICAN to-morrow morning for the purpose of supplying our readers with a due proportion of reading matter.

It will contain all the latest news of the day, together with current editorial comment, and several special articles of political and local importance.

Advertisements for this special issue will be received at our Business Office as late as 10 o'clock to-night.

BLAINE and FOSTER is the latest cry for 1880.

THE Rag-Baby is dead again—this time for good and all. It has gone, swaddling clothes and all, up the golden stair of Resurrection.

It begins to appear that the Greenbackers were in utter ignorance of the fact that an election was being held in Ohio last Tuesday.

As a consequence it is to be feared that General SAUNDERS PIATT has incontinently gone to meet PETER COOPER.

THE average bucolic editor has 'ere this remarked that the smoke of the battle has cleared away and has begun to enumerate the casualties. And, out of them, he is a Democrat, he will evoke the lengthy, lengthened and lengthening shadow of the SHERMAN boom.

The election of the colored man, WILLIAMS, to the Ohio legislature is a sore thorn in the side of the Democrats who predicted that he would be scratched and scratched into a hopeless minority.

We rise to explain, however, that his color saved him. He was voted for as no white man with his record could or would have been.

THE hard-money votes, the honest-money votes, the Bloody Shirt votes, the Stalwart votes and the Liberal votes, out in Ohio were all cast for "Calliope CHARLEY." TOM EWING has since then borrowed his late opponent's yard stick and gone to measuring the length, breadth and depth of his colossal and overwhelming minority.

THE Philadelphia Times insinuates very pointedly, or admits very emphatically, that GRANT and SHERMAN would make a good team. It says, "but a little state just now." We think, however, that the statement of this combination may possibly be assumed, as it were, by the conduct of the Democratic majority in the coming session of Congress.

BAYARD looms up in the lurid Democratic vista as a possibility for 1880.

The smoke arising from Thurman's funeral pyre covers the Bourbon camp with temporary obscurity, but as it clears away T. FRANCIS BAYARD and S. JONES TILDEN appear to be standing erect, unscathed if not unsundered, and in readiness to cheer up the mourners. But BAYARD is a poor man and has no bar!

COINCIDENT with the success of his alleged proxy in Ohio, Secretary SHERMAN was undoubtedly startled by the caption to the San Francisco dispatches in yesterday's papers: "SHERMAN Wins!" This head line, it should be understood, referred to the result of the female walking-match in that city, in which a muscular dame named SHERMAN was the victor. Perhaps these are not propitious times for the SHERMAN race.

JOHN KELLY's pilgrimage through the interior of New York in behalf of his Tammany bolt is a success. He is met with responsive sympathy from anti-Tilden Democrats wherever he goes. The wilful attempt of the Democratic press to ignore these facts while they are engaged in exaggerating the effect of the handful of Republican scratchers, GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS included, is as stupid as it is futile.

Mr. CORNELL's triumphant election is now assured beyond all doubt and cavil.

OHIO having got the Democrats on the run, New York and Pennsylvania can now take them in hand and finish up the work of wiping them out. This task is made easy, and the accomplishment of it must be short, sharp and decisive. Ohio has been fighting the battle of New York with a zeal and energy worthy of the cause, and the Empire State should roll up the memorable majority of 1872, which exceeded 50,000 when GRANT led the column on to victory. That is the figure for 1879 and '80.

JERRY DAVIS, or some other man of like kidney, will certainly be elected to succeed Senator BAYARD from Mississippi in 1881.

Meanwhile the efforts of the Bourbons to elect Senator KELLOGG, of Louisiana, will proceed under the temptation presented by the fact that his replacement by a Democrat would close up the ranks and give them a solid South in the Senate. It is true that the realization of this scheme will enrage Republicans everywhere, North and South, and make them more determined than ever that pure sectionalism, based upon bogus Home Rule, shall be put down, for the day of temporizing and conciliation with these selfish, unresponsive and seditious aggressors against the cause of good government has passed, and is gone forever. But all that will make very little, if any, difference with the Bourbon majority in the present Senate. All they desire is to add to the tenacity of their grip upon the legislative branch of the Government; to preserve the Senate, if they can, against any change of its political complexion in 1881; and to hold that body as a base for future operations in their efforts to re-establish the most exaggerated and covertly seditious construction of the rights of the States. To do this they will not hesitate or scruple at anything, no matter how unjust, revolutionary or disreputable it may be. The country may therefore as well be prepared for a vigorous renewal this coming winter of the assault upon Senator KELLOGG's title, and it will then become the duty of the Republican press to keep the people thoroughly advised of its infamously partisan character.

No curious, lynx-eyed reporter was on hand at No. 15 Gramercy Park to take note of the bolstering sorrow of the Cipher Ogre when the news from Ohio came in. But it is reasonable to suppose that the C. O. are in the night and dignity of his comprehensive innocence and remarked that PELTON or JOHNSON, or some other fellow did it. Meanwhile he is undoubtedly calculating the profit and loss of his bar! investment in the Buckeye campaign, made with an eye single and another crooked to the propagation of friendly relations all around in 1880, and feels assured that he has done his whole duty as a Democrat to S. JONES TILDEN.

OUR column-builder is at work again. The attitude of the Republican pile is increasing as the subjoined exhibit will show:

OHIO.

IOWA.

MAINE.

COLORADO.

CALIFORNIA.

The Democratic column appears rather diminutive, by comparison; but is given under the promptings of a desire to be fair all around, as follows:

NEWARK.

KENTUCKY.

It should be explained, however, that the doric entablature, as it were, which surmounts this Democratic obelisk is comprised of a Democratic mayor whose hands are tied by a Republican council. The base thereof, as everybody knows, is composed of a State governed by the diabolical yellow fever fiend, DR. DICK P. BLACKBURN.

REPUBLICANISM IN THE SOUTH.

While the assertion is frequently made that the patriotism and fidelity to the Republic is confined to the North, it will be admitted that the existence of those qualities is best attested by a close adherence to the principles of the Republican party.

Taking this assumption as a standard and pursuing an unprejudiced investigation into the facts, it appears that the assertion in question is untrue, and that it is used either by writers who are ignorant of those facts or as the result of carelessness and a slipshod characterization of the dominant political elements in the two sections. A few figures will illustrate the meaning:

In 1872, for example, there were 3,597,070 votes polled for President GRANT in all of the States out of a total vote of 6,431,149. The Southern States polled at that election 2,067,628, of which 1,079,636—a little more than half—were cast for GRANT.

There was certainly, viewed from the standard and referred to, an acknowledged patriotism and fidelity to the Republic in the South in that contest.

Again, in 1876, of the 2,730,971 votes polled in the South, 1,108,771 were given to President HAYES. Deduct from the sum total the 50,000 stuffed Democratic ballots in Alabama, 40,000 in Georgia, 50,000 in Kentucky, 20,000 in Maryland, 60,000 in Mississippi, 40,000 in North Carolina, 50,000 in South Carolina and 40,000 in Virginia, and we find that this was about one-half the votes actually polled; and to put them in, thousands of Republicans sacrificed their lives. Was there no "patriotism or fidelity to the Republic" on the part of these men who faced death—and many of whom suffered it—to show their devotion to principle?

Taking the phrase in a broader sense, it is still further from being correct. There were 175,000 white Southern men in the Union armies; also, over 100,000 colored Southern men who did the same. And it is certainly a low estimate to say that there are 100,000 Southern men who served in the Union armies or lived in the North, and sympathized with the Union cause, who have settled in the South since the war. Of these 400,000 citizens it cannot be said that they are devoid of patriotism.

But these facts and figures are mainly significant in so far as they show that the Republican party is not a sectional party, and that it has friends, adherents and supporters throughout the length and breadth of the land—enough of them to give it a legitimate control under fair elections of more than two-thirds of all the States of the Union. And it will not be denied that this array of historic truth will entitle the Southern wing of the party to a more considerate regard than they have heretofore enjoyed at the hands of their Northern brethren.

DR. EDWIN H. SMITH has been nominated by the Republicans of Dinwiddie County for the House of Delegates. Dr. SMITH is well known in this city, where his sons, Hon. JOHN AMBLER SMITH and C. M. SMITH, esq., are now practicing law. For many years Dr. SMITH was assessor of Internal Revenue in the Third Virginia District. He is a man of learning, and we believe, one of the ablest public men in Virginia. His election will reflect credit upon the people of Dinwiddie. We trust every Republican in the country will stand up for the party and its nominees. Any man who falls now should be branded as a traitor. Colored men in Virginia should bear in mind that all true Republicans support their party nominees, and also that a Republican party is in favor of honest government and equal rights to all. The taxes paid by colored men are very unjust.

nificant compared with the question of the supremacy of the Republican party. Let every Republican rally to the support of Dr. SMITH.
